DELHI POLICE

NO. 08 /2019

CIRCULAR

PREPAREDNESS AND ACTION TAKEN FOR PREVENTION AND CONTROL OF VECTOR-BORNE DISEASES I.E. DENGUE, MALARIA AND CHIKUNGUNYA.

Vector-Borne Diseases like Dengue and Chikungunya have been a major public health problem for many decades in Delhi as well as in India. Prevention of Aedes Mosquito breeding by source reduction is an effective tool for prevention and control of Dengue & Chikungunya. Hence, the following measures should be taken regularly for better prevention and control of Vector-Borne Disease i.e. Dengue, Chikungunya and Malaria:-

A. Extensive door-to-door campaigning should be held in Delhi Police colonies by respective RWAs.
B. Ensure that overhead and other water tanks/cemented tanks/containers are kept properly covered with tightly fitted lid. Overflow pipe/air vent are covered with cloths/wire mesh.
C. Water tanks of coolers should be repainted and should be changed.
D. Collection of stagnant water should not be allowed inside or around office premises and if the same takes place channelize the same else a little quantity of petrol/diesel may be poured in such stagnant water collection.
E. Condemned articles lying in open and solid waste must be disposed off regularly.
F. Do's & Don'ts Big Hoardings may be displayed for better preventive action to be taken in the colonies.
G. Liaison may be made with Civic Agencies in enacting education hoarding in all establishments of Delhi Police residential colonies.
H. Continuous checking of stagnant water in various case properties lying in open by one of the Inspector in Police Station as well as Traffic establishment & P&L, PCR and all such Units.
I. The Estate Officers of the Colonies to hold meetings with the RWAs & ensure that required action to prevent the incidents of Vector-Borne Disease is taken.
J. Case properties lying in open area in Police Stations be checked daily by the A.T.O. & Malkhana Head Constable to ensure that there is no water stagnant at these sites. SHOs/ACsP to monitor it on daily basis.

This has the approval of the Commissioner of Police, Delhi.
