Message

Satish Golchha
Commissioner of Police, Delhi

Greetings!

Delhi Police is resolute and adept at tackling crimes of varied nature and magnitude. However, the foundation of a safe society lies equally with its citizens. It is essential that we nurture patience, responsibility and mutual respect, especially among the younger generation. Emotional resilience and rational thinking are critical in preventing impulsive and harmful actions. As a society, we must collectively discourage aggression and promote calm, constructive responses to adversity.

Our continued focus on capacity building within the force, along with community outreach programmes to raise awareness about emerging threats—especially the anti-drug campaign “Nasha–Not Cool”—has been a key highlight of this month.

Recently, the “Life After Retirement” workshop organized as an awareness initiative for retiring personnel is another commendable step. This has long been a felt need, as many officers and personnel often face uncertainties post-retirement.

It is a matter of great pride that the Police Families Welfare Society celebrated its 54th Foundation Day on 18th April 2026, with Hon'ble Chief Minister of Delhi, Smt. Rekha Gupta, who graced the occasion as the Chief Guest. The active participation of police families in our welfare initiatives has strengthened our efforts towards ensuring the well-being of police personnel and their families.

I am extremely proud of my team for its achievements in policing, community engagement and personnel welfare. Delhi Police has always remained at the forefront in curbing and combating threats arising from drug networks, arms syndicates, gang conflicts, and terror-linked activities. At the same time, we need to be more vigilant with regard to the increasing involvement of minors in crime, trivial disputes escalating into serious violence, cybercrimes targeting women, and organized activities such as fake manufacturing and circulation of expired consumables. These emerging crimes call for enhanced vigilance, professional aptitude, prompt action, greater public awareness, and sensitization to ensure a safer and more secure society.

Jai Hind!

Police bust ₹16cr fraud, two arrested

New Delhi: Delhi Police has busted a mule account and shell company network. Two people have been arrested who were allegedly the dummy directors of the fake firm. Cops uncovered a flow of Rs 16 crore as part of the network.

Police said the account was traced through data on suspicious mule accounts available on the NCRP and inputs from the IAT Samanyam portal. An account, registered under the name of a private limited company at its Bawana branch, was found to have been involved in suspicious activity.

"Analysis of the account data reportedly revealed that it was linked with 136 complaints across the country and appeared at various layers of the money trail," said DCP (operational) Harender Swami.

The two key accused — allegedly acting as dummy directors of the company — were identified as Som Kumar and Anind Singh. Both were arrested for allegedly facilitating the shell company operations.

Investigation revealed that the financial activity matched the declared business of the companies, which was reported to be trading in real estate.
